95TH YEAR

GETTYSBURG, PA., WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1912

NO. 18

GETTYSBURG'S ANNIVERSARY COMMISSION MET IN GETTYSBURG ON LAST FRIDAY.

A Number of Important Points About the Preparation Plans Considered by Commission.

The Fiftieth Anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg Commission met in Gettysburg last week and it was one of the very few meetings at which every member was present, as follows: General Louis Wagner, chairman, of Philadelphia; General Wm. D. Dixon, of Lehigh; Major R. Dale Benson, of Philadelphia; Colonel E. Bruce Ricketts, of Wilkes-Barre; Major Alexander McDowell, of Sharon; Corporal Irwin K. Campbell, and Capt. Wm. J. Patterson, of Pittsburgh; Capt. Wm. E. Miller of Carlisle; and General J. M. Schoonmaker of Pittsburgh.

All the commissioners arrived on Thursday afternoon and evening, except General Schoonmaker who came in his private car by first train on Friday morning on W. M. R. R. The headquarters of the commission were at the Hotel Gettysburg, where all the meetings were held. Governor John K. Tener arrived Friday noon in his limousine and was present with the commission at a most important session in the afternoon.

The sessions of the commission were private, no one present outside the commission but Captains Dalton and Humphries, representing the War Department, and such news as the commission desired to make public being handed out.

The commission came to Gettysburg fresh with the discovery that Adjutant General Thomas J. Stewart had rented the ground in the south-western part of the town upon which Captains Hartman and Humphries had plotted one of the camps to contain the 40,000 veterans. Last winter through the Secretary of War these lands had been plotted but were not leased because the War Department had no money for the purpose. The Commission repeatedly drew the attention of the Pennsylvania Commission, who had the available funds, to the necessity to secure the same. But nothing was done and after the National Guard encampment in the summer General Stewart acquired the land by actual lease, for the purpose of having proper headquarters for the Governor of Pennsylvania. There seemed to be a disposition among the commissioners to criticize this act of General Stewart, rather than the delay in securing the same. This situation was canvassed and the agreement of General Stewart was considered, to release these lands provided Governor Tener was permitted to occupy the college campus and buildings. The college authorities were communicated with and while individual trustees believed that this could be accomplished yet no positive action could be taken until the meeting of the Board of Trustees on December 27th. At that time it is expected such action will be taken so that the plotted land will be released and the War Department will then be able to secure the same. It was thought that it would be a happy solution of the situation to have Governor Tener and Staff on the college grounds with the other Governors of the States attending the celebration.

General J. M. Schoonmaker came to the meeting prepared to show the way to solve the transportation and terminal difficulties. General Schoonmaker is a live wire and had fully acquainted himself with the problems her and had plans drawn by which they could be overcome. He is an experienced railroad man who has won his spurs and after he had thoroughly explained difficulties and the way out, the commission put into his hands the entire question of transportation and terminal matters. General Schoonmaker believes that the belt line from Harrisburg to Gettysburg, Hanover, York and back to starting point will not be practical to the various railroads who would have to make it possible. It had been calculated that such a plan would make possible the delivery at Gettysburg daily of 30,000. According to the plans of General Schoonmaker a larger number will be able to reach this place daily. General Schoonmaker is vice president of the Pittsburgh, Lake Erie and Western Railroad, one of the companies allied with the New York Central, the company that is behind the Western Maryland Railroad. The latter road will need a much larger track equipment than it has at present. This need is pressing now and the celebration would only more clearly demonstrate this fact and the solution is believed to be permanent and adequate preparation for the event. General Schoonmaker will leave nothing undone to bring this about. It is most fortunate that he is in charge of this most difficult end of the event.

Capt. Wm. E. Miller called attention to the fact that thousands of automobiles would come to Gettysburg during the celebration and that all the roads entering Gettysburg should be put in the best possible repair by the Highway Department and that for the public health and safety of travel the roads and streets should be oiled by the department. Captain Miller was appointed to interview Highway Commissioner Bigelow and secure the repairing and oiling of roads and streets.

Dr. J. A. Singmaster was invited to be present on Friday afternoon. The act of Congress has been strictly construed as permitting no expenditure except such as is explicitly provided for by the act. The Secretary of War will provide the camp sites, supplies, water, sewerage, sanitation and food.

tal service for the veterans alone in the camp cities. Dr. Singmaster called attention to the need in town of comfort stations, sanitation, hospital service, and the absolute need of help to care for the general public. While questions were asked as to the part the town was to take in such preparations, at the conclusion Dr. Singmaster was asked to put in writing the needs of Gettysburg, with estimated cost thereof, to be presented to the commission by Jan. 15, to be considered at their next meeting in Philadelphia on Jan. 23, when it was expected to have present representatives from all the States. It is probable at this January meeting some tentative program will be considered, nothing having been done along that line at the meeting last week.

In a brief talk, Governor Tener expressed himself to the representative of the Commission in relation to the position of the town. It was explained to him that the town would be found helpful to the extent of its ability. That the taxes had already been collected for this year and through expenses always equalled taxes collected and that no taxes for next year could be collected under process of law prior to the celebration to be available for such purpose. Governor Tener then suggested that public spirited citizens, merchants, hotel men and others make some provision for the town necessities.

The point has been reached where it will be necessary for the town authorities and citizens to take up the question of what it is possible for the town to do. When States and Nation propose to join in the celebration of a national event whereby ten to twenty times our population at the lowest calculation will be brought here, it would seem that it would be almost impossible for this town to fully and adequately cover any one item and that we will need help along every line and all emergencies.

The town can and will lodge 15,000 but that is the limit and when that limit is reached and veteran camps are not possible of being occupied by the general public, the remaining thousands will be without lodging accommodations. The State could help this lodging capacity by sending every available N. G. P. tent in charge of details of guards, and they could be erected on ground within the town, on vacant lots along our streets, accessible to water mains, etc. Such tent accommodations might be charged for by State at a sum to cover expense.

The town could board a few more thousands of soldiers. When, however, no accurate information is available as to the exact number attending it ought to be possible in the event of a shortage of food for the public to buy rations. These contingencies show the need of enlarging legislation both from Congress and the Legislature.

Public comfort stations, closets, drinking fountains and other accommodations will be absolutely needed in this town for the use of thousands of the general public and the thousands upon thousands of veterans brought here by the States and coming into the town. This item if adequately undertaken would run into thousands of dollars, and far beyond the ability of the town.

Hospital service could be furnished the town from the N. G. P. and policing service from the State Constabulary.

It was apparent from what was gathered from the commissioners that the present State appropriation will fall far short of needs. The Legislature indicated the total to be allowed was $250,000. Of this $150,000 must be handed over to the National Government for physical preparations. That leaves but $100,000 for the commission. Fully $10,000 of this must have already been spent by the commission and what remains to be done will scarcely leave enough to pay the transportation of survivors of the Gettysburg Battle. There will be no transportation available for veterans of the State who were not in the battle. More legislation and another appropriation will be necessary to provide for them. Each State will be allowed to decide whether only survivors of battle or all veterans will be brought to the celebration.

Patrons' Day at School.

A general invitation is extended by the public schools of Gettysburg to their exhibit of art and industrial work on Friday afternoon, Dec. 20. In all the schools hand work of the pupils will be on exhibit. In the upper grammar and high school grades sewing, basketry and manual training work will be the special features. All through the schools the pupils are being trained in hand constructive work and it is desired that all persons interested see what is being accomplished.

All rooms will be open to visitors at any time and they may come and go at their convenience. In this way it will be possible for all to visit all the buildings and rooms.

The Christmas Dinner.

In spite of the fact that the word dyspepsia means literally bad cook, it will not be fair for many to lay the blame on the cook if they begin the Christmas Dinner with little appetite and end it with distress or nausea. It may not be fair for any to do that—let us hope so for the sake of the cook! The disease dyspepsia indicates a bad stomach, that is a weak stomach, rather than a bad cook, and for a weak stomach there is nothing else equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. It gives the stomach vigor and tone, cures dyspepsia, creates appetite, and makes eating the pleasure it should be.

FATE OF LINCOLN WAY UNITED STATES SENATE APPROVE MONUMENT MEMORIAL.

The Hope of the Highway is with the Appropriation Committee of House of Representatives.

The special message of President Taft submitting the report of the Lincoln Memorial Commission, recommending the Lincoln monument in Washington, was referred to the Senate Committee on the Library. Last Friday Senator Cullom called up a concurrent resolution reported on the day before. The report of the commission is as follows:

REPORT.

The Committee on the Library, to which was referred the message of the President of December 5, 1912, transmitting a report of the Lincoln Memorial Commission, have considered and return herewith the message and report, and recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

"Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That the plan, design, and location for a Lincoln Memorial determined upon and recommended to Congress December 4, 1912, by the commission created by the act entitled 'an act to provide a commission to secure plans and designs for a monument or memorial to the memory of Abraham Lincoln,' approved February 9, 1911, be, and the same are hereby approved."

The act of February 9, 1911, provided for the erection of a monument in the city of Washington in memory of Abraham Lincoln, and created a commission to determine upon a location and design, subject to the approval of Congress.

The commission now reports that it has determined upon a location on the public land of the United States on the banks of the Potomac; and upon a design, photographs of which are transmitted.

The object of the proposed resolution is to accept this design.

The present members of the commission are: President Taft, Senator Cullom of Illinois, Senator Wetmore of Rhode Island, Senator Martin of Virginia, Speaker Clark, Representative Cannon of Illinois, Representative McCall of Massachusetts.

It appears that the commission held 16 meetings and fully considered numerous suggested or possible locations and various designs, and that, as directed by the statutes it called for and received advice of the Commission of Fine Arts, which, after exhaustive study, agrees with the conclusion now reached.

The report says: "The commission after a careful examination and discussion of the design presented by Mr. Bacon has adopted it unanimously and recommends that Congress approve the construction of the memorial upon the selected site in Potomac Park in accordance with the plans and designs of Mr. Bacon."

All the members of the commission join in the report.

Acceptance of this decision will bring performance of the long delayed and neglected duty to erect a monument to Abraham Lincoln in this city.

The failure to bring to success any of the repeated attempts to secure such a monument is not altogether creditable.

On the 29th of March, 1869, Congress incorporated a "Lincoln Monument Association" of which the Treasurer of the United States was treasurer. Some money was raised, plans and designs were prepared, but the enterprise languished, the chief actors passed away, and an insignificant sum remains in the Treasury of the United States.

On the 28th of June, 1902, Congress created a commission to secure plans and designs for such a monument, but that commission never agreed and never reported.

In the meantime and before the present act was passed many bills for a monument were from time to time introduced in Congress. Some of them died in committee and some were reported and never acted upon.

At last we have a definite conclusion, joined in after great consideration by eminent representatives of both Houses of Congress, by the Executive, and by the trained and experienced advisers whom they were directed by law to consult.

It has long been the policy of our Government to set up in the Capital City suitable memorials to the great men whom the Nation holds in honor.

A memorial to Grant is nearly completed. We already have statues of Sheridan, Logan, Thomas, McPherson, McClellan, Hancock, Rawlins, Du Pont, and Farragut of the Civil War period. Appropriations have passed the Senate for Jefferson and Hamilton memorials. Washington, Marshall, La Fayette, Nathaniel Greene, Rochambeau, Von Steuben, Kosciuszko, Pulaski, Paul Jones, Jackson, Scott, and Webster of earlier periods are commemorated.

For Lincoln alone our gratitude and devotion have seemed too weak to overcome small differences of opinion and taste. There must come an end some time to discussion and a yielding of individual preference to the general judgment if there is ever to be action. It is not tolerable that the remaining survivors of the generation that knew Lincoln should pass away and leave no memorial of their reverence and love for him in the city which was the scene of his sojourn and sacrifice.

To select the conclusions of this commission apparently would prevent the erection of any Lincoln monument whatever.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

The following concurrent resolution was read on last Friday in the Senate, considered by unanimous consent and agreed to, as follows:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That the plan, design and location for a Lincoln Memorial, determined upon and recommended to Congress December 4, 1912, by the commission created by the act entitled 'an act to provide a commission to secure plans and designs for a monument or memorial to the memory of Abraham Lincoln,' approved February 9, 1911, be, and the same are hereby approved."

On Friday the above Senate concurrent resolution was sent to House and taken from the Speaker's table and referred to the Committee on Appropriations and thereby hangs the tale of the Lincoln Highway. It may not be altogether hopeless.

The bill introduced into the present house by Mr. Borland of Missouri was referred to the Library Committee of the House and was never heard of again from that committee, and if the concurrent resolution above set out had gone to the same committee the monument would have been unquestionably favored. The resolution however goes to the Appropriation Committee. Mr. Borland is a member of this committee as well as other friends of the Highway memorial. The fate of the highway can not be said to be hopeless when it is in the hands of the Representatives of the People devoted and determined to erect to that President, representative of the people more than any other president, a memorial more appropriate and expressive of the love of the people than any monument of stone in Washington could be.

In the fitness of things this great nation in the year of the celebration of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg could make no greater memorial to Lincoln than the Highway, devoted to the cultivation of that which Lincoln expressed in his interpretation of Gettysburg in his great speech here.

Fire Chief Resigns.

At a meeting of the Gettysburg Steam Fire Engine Company on last Wednesday evening E. P. Wisotzky tendered his resignation as Chief of the company to take effect with the annual election in January. Mr. Wisotzky has been a member of the Fire Company for twenty-seven years and for the past fifteen years has been its most efficient chief and he will retire from the head of the company with the gratitude of the people of the town for the thorough manner in which he has always discharged every duty.

Mr. Wisotzky was a most efficient fire fighter. He had the right enthusiasm. He was always among the first at a fire and never lost his head, never asked a fireman to go where he was not willing to go himself. The citizens had confidence in his ability and he again and again demonstrated that he was entitled to this confidence. There have been a number of serious fires while he was chief but not one ever got beyond control of the company. He always took the greatest interest in the company as an organization and in having every apparatus of the company in the best condition for every emergency.

Mr. Wisotzky has been apprehensive for some time that the present apparatus would not be equal on some occasion to the demands. He believes that there should be a water tower in the town to give the pressure needed for fire fighting purposes, and has been fearful of a time when the company would be handicapped with low pressure and demands made upon the apparatus.

At the meeting of the Fire Company the resignation of Chief Wisotzky was accepted. A number of names have been suggested as possible successors. A committee was also appointed to arrange for the annual banquet next month.

Dwelling Burned.

On Friday morning, Dec. 6, about 2 o'clock, it was discovered that the house of James Bishop was on fire at Fairfield Station. The discovery was made by neighbors and until the family were apprized of the fact the roof was ready to fall in. By means of the telephone a number of persons in Fairfield and surrounding country were called and went to their assistance. But it was too late to save the building or much of anything. Some pork and lard of a recent butchering was saved. There was an insurance on the building. It is supposed to have caught from a spark from a passing engine.

December Weddings.

HAZLET-SKELLY.—A pretty home wedding took place at noon Wednesday of last week, Miss Rachel Witherow Skelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel A. Skelly, of this place, and Adam J. Hazlet, of Aspinwall, being united in marriage by Rev. Robert Gearhart, a Seminary student, a college classmate of the groom. The Skelly home was prettily decorated with spruce, Killarney roses, carnations and lighted candles. The bride and groom were unattended. Miss Katharine Duncan playing the Lohengrin march as they entered the parlor. The bride wore a gown of white crepe meteor and carried white roses. The double ring ceremony was used. An informal reception followed the ceremony. The bride and groom left during the afternoon on a honeymoon trip. The bride's going-away costume was of blue serge with velvet hat. They will reside at Aspinwall where groom is employed with the West Penn Steel Company of Brakenridge. He graduate from Gettysburg College in class of 1910.

HAIR—MELHORN.—Lewis B. Hafer, son of Mrs. Emma C. Hafer, and Miss Helen Melhorn, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Melhorn, both of Hanover and well known here, were married Wednesday, Dec. 11, by Rev. A. S. Dechant, pastor of Emanuel Reformed Church, at the parsonage on Abbottstown street, Hanover.

STERNER—AUGHINBAUGH.—Roger G. Sterner, telegraph operator at the W. M. Station this place, and Miss Mae E. Aughinbaugh, daughter of Mrs. Wm. Aughinbaugh, were recently united in marriage by Rev. J. B. Baker.

SNYDER—FORBES.—On Nov. 27, in Chicago, Barrett E. Snyder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Baltzer Snyder, former residents of Gettysburg, and a grandson of Mrs. Sarah B. King of this place, and Miss Mary Irene Forbes were united in marriage.

RICHARDSON—RETZER.—On Dec. 15, at the home of the bride at Wheeling, W. Va., Miss Helen Retzer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Retzer, and X. King Richardson, son of Rev. A. F. Richardson, and grandson of Mrs. Sarah B. King of this place were united in marriage.

Confessed to Theft.

Harry Kump, of Menallen township, was charged last week with theft of $106 in government funds and other money, a mileage book and a $25 check from the store and postoffice of J. J. Rex, postmaster at Aspers. The boy, aged 19 years, went into the store and asked for lemons and clerk went into cellar to secure same. Later the pocketbook and other valuables were found missing. The postal authorities were notified and Postal Inspector Lucas and Constable Peters of Aspers went to the young man's home and arrested him. He confessed and told officers where money could be found. He requested permission to change his clothes before going with them. Soon afterwards a pistol shot was heard. Officers rushed to his room and found him unconscious on floor and revolver by his side. There was no wound about the young man. A hole in the ceiling showed where bullet had gone. Fright and excitement caused him to fall to the floor unconscious. At the hearing he was held under $500 bail for court.

Dwelling Near Town Destroyed.

The frame house on the Tanerstown road owned by the United States, near the government tool house and tenanted by William Abell and family, was totally destroyed by fire last Thursday afternoon. The tenant is in the employ of the National Park Commissioners. The chimney was on fire during the day and in some way the house caught between the ceiling of first story and floor of the second and when it broke out it was impossible to save the building or contents, everything being consumed but a few pieces of furniture and with the clothes of Mr. Abell a small amount of money.

Mrs. Abell was sick in bed at the time and Mr. Abell was not at home.

Congressman-Elect on the Floor.

Congressman-elect A. R. Brodbeck spent several days in Washington, D. C., last week. The purpose of his visit was mainly to arrange for an office in the House office building, and to look up living quarters during the sessions of Congress.

As Congressman-elect he was invited to the floor of the House of Representatives, which was in session, where he spent most of his time, and was most cordially received by the Democratic leaders and members of the House in general.

Mad Dog at Arendtsville.

Roy Raffensperger of Arendtsville recently went to Marietta for the Pasteur treatment. He was recently bitten on the arm by his own dog. The animal had attacked a calf and Mr. Raffensperger interfered and upon a second interference with the dog in an attempt to get into the barn he was bitten in arm above the wrist. The dog was penned up and died. Dr. Wolf who attended Mr. Raffensperger sent doghead to laboratory of State Live Stock Board at Philadelphia and received word that dog had rabies. The young man then left to take the Pasteur treatment.

Fur Department

Ranking among the first in popularity as gift at the Christmas season come FURS which, with the conveyance of a sense of luxury as well as solid comfort, are quite irresistible and sure to make glad the heart of the recipient.

There is so much deception practiced by some furriers that in order to give our customers dependable furs, we put ourselves into the hands of furriers whose reputation is made on first-class work. Ahnis, of Detroit, is one of the most reliable in the trade in style, quality and price. We are showing fashionable shapes and skins that are not only beautiful but will wear.

One set, which is worthy of special mention, is in Japanese Mink. The shawl collar is made of carefully selected skins, arranged effectively, finished with a border of the same. The Pillow Muff is soft and beautiful and richly lined. $32.50 the set.

Other Muffs and Neck Pieces to match in various styles in the popular shapes, in Russian Mink, Australian Lynx and Natural Opossum. Price starts at $15.00 per set upward.

SEPARATE MUFFS—The Pillow and Saddle or "Shopping Bag" Muffs being among the most wanted shapes—the latter is lined so as to form a pocket. One style in Fox at $12.50, another handsome Muff of the same fur at $17.00, and yet another model in Australian Lynx at $17.00. Also China Lynx, Russian Mink, &c., as well as an assortment of less expensive pieces—both collars and muffs—ranging in price from $1.75 to $12.00.

CHILDREN'S SETS in Curly Lamb Thibet, Imitation Ermine, Water Mink, &c. One charming set in Tan Tipped Mouflon at $6.50; others range in price from $1.15 to $6.50.

Silk Skirts

Messaline or Taffeta, changeable and plain colors and black, deep tucked flounces—"Eppo" fitting—a very acceptable gift to any woman. $3, $4, $5, up. Sateen and Cotton Taffeta Skirts. Special values at $1.00, $1.50 to $2.50.

Separate Waists

In the matter of Waists a woman's wardrobe is like a London bus—there being always "room for one more." A fresh lot of Lingerie Waists will help you in your selection of gifts—and take with it a guarantee of acceptability.

The POPULAR WASH SILK WAISTS in dainty strips of black and blue—made in the shirt style with French collar and cuff—and also French Flannels made in same style, $2.25.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

Bulletin

Convenient Transportation Facilities

The Pennsylvania Railroad, by main lines, branches, subsidiary lines, and connections, covers the Eastern country so completely that the people of almost every community may avail themselves of its facilities.

The lines reach the cities, the big towns and the little towns, so that whether the impulse to travel be for business, pleasure, or social purposes, it may be satisfactorily carried out, as far as transportation facilities are concerned, by taking a Pennsylvania Railroad train at the nearest point.

Through cars are operated over the lines between all important centers of population, and an excellent dining car service is available at the usual hours for meals on the through trains. The all-steel equipment of the trains adds greatly to the security and comfort of passengers.

The spirit of the holiday season stimulates the wish to travel, and the facilities of the Pennsylvania Railroad and its connections appeal with equal force to the home-coming young folks and the migrating people of maturer years.

The comprehensive train service, apart from the local trains well known in each community, covers a wide extent of territory.

BETWEEN THE EAST AND THE WEST

There are splendid limited trains between New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Harrisburg, Altoona, Pittsburgh, and points in the West, notably Chicago and St. Louis. Included among these are the "BROADWAY LIMITED," the 20-hour train between New York and Chicago; the "24-HOUR ST. LOUIS," to St. Louis and Chicago; "THE PENNSYLVANIA LIMITED," to Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland, and Cincinnati; and the "CHICAGO LIMITED," to Chicago, Cincinnati, and Cleveland. These are all Pullman trains and provide the highest grade of service. In addition there are a number of express trains to Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, Columbus, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, and other important centers of the Middle West, which provide both Pullman and all-steel coach service. Among these are the "Chicago Special," "Chicago Express," "St. Louis Express," "Western Express," and the "Cleveland, Cincinnati, and Chicago Express."

TO THE SOUTH

Those contemplating a trip South, to the resorts of the Carolinas, Georgia, Florida, and the Gulf Coast, will find a number of fine trains between the important terminal cities of the Pennsylvania Railroad; and cars to the more important cities of the South, running through from and to New York via Washington, Baltimore, and Philadelphia. On January 6, 1913, the through Limited Trains between New York and Florida will be placed in service.

COMMERCIAL CENTERS LINKED

An examination of the time tables of the Pennsylvania Railroad will show that practically all important commercial centers on its lines and connections are linked by through trains, through cars, or convenient connections, affording accommodating service.

Anyone who wishes to go anywhere should consult the nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad. He can give all the information a traveler requires.

Preparing For Christmas.

"There was a man sent from God." The English of it could not be more simple or direct.

One sees as in a vision the man of the wilderness, clothed in a garment of camel's hair, face that of an ascetic, spare of frame—the man who fed on locusts and wild honey.

And then we stop there. "There was a man sent from God"—that is all. Some of us perhaps who know his story follow him a little further in our mental vision as he went about proclaiming his tidings. Some of us perhaps wonder what the next picture will be. Some of us say over, "There was a man sent from God," with considerable accent on the smallest word, and mentally remark, "What of it?"

But does it not occur to you that more than one has been "sent"—that for some reason or other every living soul has a mission here and therefore that you and I have one, too, and, if we were sent, why?

Not for the mere sending, as we like to believe.

If we were sent there was a purpose in it.

There are "tidings" for our spreading, just as there were in those days of long ago, and a work for us to do.

Are we doing it, or are we so occupied with our own lives and hopes and ambitions and pleasures that we have quite forgotten life was given us for something besides eating and drinking, sleeping and working and general enjoyment?

If this is what we have been doing there is no better season in all the year for starting afresh on a right basis to do the work and carry the messages of happiness to others, for which we were sent.

Somewhat Christmas, with all its poetry, has a most practical side. There is so much work to be done.

Are we preparing our Christmas gifts selfishly, giving only to those from whom we expect gifts in return, or are we planning to do a bit of the work for which we were sent—planning to make Christmas a happy time for some of the less favored ones of earth?

And are you doing your utmost? Are we giving what we can in our Christmas gifts, or are we giving for the Christ's sake whatever happens to be left over after we have bought expensive gifts for our friends which they do not need, luxuries for ourselves that we could do without, leaving for him the leftover nickels and pennies?

No matter what Christmas has been to us in past years, let us this year give for the sake of the giving, for the sake of those who need it, for the sake of the reason for which we were "sent."

No matter how small the offering if it be our best.

No matter how poor it seems nor how insignificant, it is yours to tell your Christmas tidings, yours to bring Christmas happiness to some one.

Let us prepare our gifts in the right spirit—a spirit to prove that we want to do our part and enjoy doing it, in spreading far and wide the joy and the happiness which Christmas day typifies—joy and happiness which we have been sent to make real to some heart that perhaps knows, but does not feel because of its suffering or bitterness or poverty.—Boston Traveler.

Christmas Bells.

Ring the glad tidings, the Saviour is born!
Ring it, ye bells, on this glorious morn!
And perched on the branch of my Christmas tree

A motley assemblage of maidens see.
Know you what tale to their ear there tells.

Your loud merry clanging, ye Christmas bells?

Then list! To proud Maud looking tenderly down
On jewels that flash on her silken gown.
To long braided Gretchen, content with her share,
Of chains, though not gold, yet of saucy rare.

Your chiming weaves sweetest and fairest of spells.
Bears whispers prophetic of "wedding bells."

All swiftly as out rings your warning tongue
His sweetheart gets ready the tea for Ah Lung.

And ebony Chloe of Fifth Avenue—south—
In welcoming smiles spreads her generous mouth.

Far different to them is the treat it foretells—
Your meaning, prosaic, just "dinner bells."

Bianca in tune shakes her gay tambourine,
And lightly to church trips demure Angelina.

Bestowing no look to the left nor the right,
Though noting full well the admirer in sight.

But soon a sweet smile all his doubting dispels,
And gayly your chiming betokens "leisure bells."

The children run out longed for gifts to receive,
And all the world full of joy, I believe.

For northward and southward, to east and to west,
The bells peal out plainly what each one likes best.

Then ring ye and swing ye, ye gay Christmas bells,
Four chiming the fairest of messages tell.

—Etelka Fashion Album.

A Christmas Song.

[Waits' Carol.]
So rest ye well, kynde gentlemen;
So rest ye well tonight.
Ye moon shines in an azure sky;
Ye eastern star has risen on high;
So rest ye well tonight.

So sleep ye sweet, fayre gentle maids;
So sleep ye sweet tonight.
Ye snow lies white, ye winds doe moane;
Ye night lies on, ye candle's blown;
So sleep ye sweet tonight.

So rest ye all, kynde gentle folk;
So rest ye all tonight.
May in your hearts the Christ Child's face
Forever live for all and give you grace
So rest ye well tonight.

—Richard Barton Butler

A GIRL'S FRIEND

Many growing girls in school or business are frail—delicate—anemic—lack energy and ambition and have thin blood. It is all unnatural and unless checked leads to serious and chronic ills.

Nourishment, not drugs, is the law of reason to build strength—but when appetite is poor and digestion weak, ordinary foods do not nourish—then SCOTT'S EMULSION is necessary.

SCOTT'S EMULSION overcomes just such conditions; its tissue material enters the blood without digestive effort and makes it rich. It tones the whole system and starts the healthy action of cells throughout the body.

Imitations are often offered, but to get results you must get SCOTT'S.

Sheer Waste.
Sir Archibald Geikie tells a story of a Scotchman who, much against his own will, was persuaded to take a holiday. He went to Egypt and visited the pyramids. After gazing for some time at the great pyramid he muttered, "Man, what a lot of useless work not to be brin'g in any rent!"

SANT CLAUS
|| SALT LAKE

To a thrifty Mormon household came the patron saint of Yule.

He was puffing like an engine, he was laden like a mule.

For he knew a row of stockings such as nowhere else is seen.

Would be yawning there before him in the home of Elder Green.

So he shivered his pack ahead of him and started down the flue.

While he mtered, "This is something that I like to smoke to do."

Then he followed with reluctance through the smoky, snaky air.

Quickly landed where the hostelry was hung in many a pair.

There were papa's socks and twenty pairs of lengthly, wifely hose;

There were socks for Eddie, Willie for Elphalest and Mose;

There were stockings of Matilda's, Esmeralda's and Susanna's;

There were Charlie's hose and Molly's Cora Belle's and little Dan's.

Amoryllis, George, Alphonso, Peter, Joseph, Al, and Eugene.

Arthur, Lizzie, James, Amelia, Mary, Francis and Irene.

Briggle, Reed, Lucile, Clorinda, Arethusa, John, Estelle.

Mattie, Lucian, Elfrida—from his lip their names fell.

But about the shelf there dangled other hose whose owners' names

He could not recall to save him as he watched the dying flames.

Seven pairs all baby sizes, each in a not quite a year.

"Gee," cried Nick, "been something doing since the last time I was here."

Glad I brought a stock of rattles and a set of teething rings.

Utah always gives a market for such kindergarten things.

From "race suicide" she ever has discreetly held aloof.

And there's not a home in Zion free from stork tracks on the roof."

—Strickland W. Gillilan in Judge.

SOME CHRISTMAS REFLECTIONS.

"This Yule be wiser for, if, following his nocturnal observations, Santa Claus were to give away as much as he keeps to himself, there would be several scandals in Bohemia."

Keeping Christmas is generally done at a loss.

One touch of Christmas makes the whole world grin.

One swallow doesn't make a Christmas.

Nor does a snow bank.

Even the stockings must yawn and stretch on Christmas morning.

Christmas had been a weak day without the punch.

Write Ideas for Moving Picture Plays!

YOU CAN WRITE PHOTO PLAYS AND EARN $25.00 OR MORE WEEKLY

We Will Show You How!

If you have ideas—if you can THINK—we will show you the secrets of this fascinating new profession. Positively no experience or literary excellence necessary. No "flowery language" is wanted.

The demand for photoplays is practically unlimited. The big film manufacturers are "moving heaven and earth" in their attempts to get enough good plots to supply the ever increasing demand. They are offering $100, and more, for single scenarios, or written ideas.

Nearly all the big film companies, the buyers of photoplays, are located in or near NEW YORK CITY. Being right on the spot, and knowing at all times just what sort of plots are wanted by the producers, our SALES DEPARTMENT has a tremendous advantage over agencies situated in distant cities.

We have received many letters from the big film manufacturers, such as VITAGRAPH, EDISON, ESSANAY, LUBIN, SOLAX, IMP, REX, RELIANCE, CHAMPION, COMET, MELIES, ETC., urging us to send photoplays to them. We want more writers and we'll gladly teach you the secrets of success.

We are selling photoplays written by people who "never before wrote a line for publication"

Perhaps we can do the same for you. If you can think of only one good idea every week, and will write it out as directed by us, and it sells for only $25, a low figure,

You Will Earn $100 Monthly For Spare Time Work

FREE Send your name and address at once for free copy of our illustrated book, "MOVING PICTURE PLAYWRITING"

Don't hesitate. Don't argue. Write NOW and learn just what this new profession may mean for you and your future.

The Harvest of Death.

Mrs. ANDREW J. BITTINGER of Arendtsville, died on Tuesday, Dec. 10, aged 69 years. The funeral was held on last Friday. Interment in Arendtsville cemetery. Her husband died two years ago. Three daughters and a son survive, Miss Ella Bittinger at home, Mrs. Abraham McCauslin of Menallen township, Mrs. Harry Eckenrode of near Heidlersburg, Edward Bittinger of Buchanan Valley. She also leaves two brothers and three sisters, Lincoln Warren, Edward Warren, and Mrs. Fred Showers of Biglerville; Mrs. Shoap of Shippensburg, and Miss Susan Warren of Gettysburg.

DAVID CROWL died in Cherrytown, Md., on Dec. 7, in his 73rd year. The funeral was on Dec. 10, interment at Silver Run. He was one of the prominent farmers near Union Mills, Md. He leaves a wife and the following children: Miss Emma Crowl of Tyrone, Md., Mrs. Allowess D. Feaser, Pennsylvania; Milton, Crowl, Littlestown; Mrs. Joshua Steward, John W. Crowl, Charles H. Crowl, Garfield D. Crowl and William H. Crowl, of near Union Mills.

CHARLES WESLEY SCHILDT, aged 26 years, was crushed to death by the falling of a roof on farm of H. N. Gilt last week. The young man was under roof when scantling gave way and the roof fell on him, crushing his skull. He was unconscious when the roof was lifted from him, his head lying between a large stone and raft.

ers and blood gushing from mouth, ears and nose. He lived about ten minutes. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Estella Edna Stair of Littlestown, and an only child aged 18 months.

MISS EMILY E. CLEPPER who lived at Mt. Holly Springs died on Dec. 9 in her 68th year. The funeral was held last Thursday, Dec. 12, services and interment at Gardner's U. B. Church, Latimore, this county. Her family belonged to this county. She leaves one brother, George Clepper of Geneva, N. Y.

THEOPHILUS HAAR of Paradise township, York county, died on last Wednesday, Dec. 11, from a paralytic stroke received in his yard the day before aged 66 years. The funeral was last Friday, services by Rev. F. C. Sternat, interment in Abbottstown cemetery. He leaves three sons and four daughters as follows: Henry Haar of near New Oxford, Harvey Haar of Mechanicsburg, Mrs. Herbert Hendricks of New Freedom, York county, Miss Emma Haar of Camden, N. J., Gideon Haar and Misses Lillian and Susan Haar at home. He is also survived by a brother and sister, Valentine Haar of near Abbottstown, and Mrs. Daniel Heilman, near that place.

HAZEL MARGARET BOSSERMAN, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Bosserman of York, formerly of East Berlin, died aged 1 year and 21 days. Interment at the Mummert Meeting House graveyard last week.

JOHN MOOSE, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Moose of Franklin township, died in the Chambersburg Hospital on Monday morning from injuries received from kick of a horse on the head. He was 19 years of age. On last Saturday evening after his supper the young man went to the stable to hitch up a horse to go to Biglerville. After getting the buggy ready he went into the stable to hitch horse and was kicked on the forehead above eyes, crushing in the skull. He was also kicked on the chest. He was able in some way to reach another stall where he fell and was found next morning by his mother. Dr. Wm. E. Wolf of Arendtsville was summoned and he was taken to the Chambersburg hospital by Daniel Sheely in his automobile, accompanied by Dr. Wolf and ex-Commissioner J. A. Kane. Sunday afternoon an operation was performed, removing three large pieces of bone from the brain. The family have the heartiest sympathy of their community. The funeral will be held this Wednesday morning, interment at Beaders Church. He is survived by his parents, three brothers and three sisters, William of Arendtsville, Chas. of Menallen township, Luther, Carrie, Maggie and Dorothy at home.

F. L. TRACEY of Charmain died on Monday of last week aged about 65 years. He had been employed in Chambersburg but of recent years had retired because of ill health and was highly respected by the residents of the mountain section.

Mrs. JULIA M. MOTTER of Manchester, Md., died last week at her home from pneumonia, aged 67 years. She was twice married, leaving two daughters by first husband and two sons by second marriage, one of the daughters being Miss Fannie Ross, a frequent visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Weaver of this place.

JOHN A. WEGLE, one of the barbers of Arendtsville took sick several weeks ago, and moving to Biglerville died at latter place on Sunday, Dec. 8th. He leaves a son and daughter.

GET THE XMAS SPIRIT.
 One more week and the Christmas celebration will be upon us. The Christmas message of cheer and good will is so easy to make your own that many overlook it as though it was difficult to get. It can never be had from expectations and realizations that do not measure up to the expectations. Cheer and good will only can come from giving. Give these and you will get back what you give. If you don't go after them in this way you will never know what cheer and goodwill is. Give them because you want to give them and more abundantly will you have them yourself.
 The Gettysburg Stores are filled with the choicest of goods to help young and old in the getting of that Xmas Spirit which comes by giving.

Omission of Two Words Cause Wreck
 In the report to the State Railroad Commission as to the cause of the wreck on W. M. R. R. at Pen-Mar told of in our last issue, by which four employes and a tramp were killed, Marshall Dohoney says:
 "The disaster emphasizes the importance of the exercise of common sense or the display of at least ordinary intelligence on the part of the sender and receiver of orders for the movement of trains. If in this case there had been added to the message 'change numbers accordingly' the words 'and orders,' so that it would have read 'change numbers and orders accordingly,' the conductor of the leading freight train and the conductor of the passenger train would, no doubt, have exchanged orders and would have had a harmonious understanding of the situation."

I will continue the manufacture of brooms at the old stand on Franklin St., two doors north of Chambersburg St.

Horrible Accident.
 Eicholtz Brothers are sawing out a piece of timberland on Weigle farm near Bendersville and their head sawyer was prevented from going to work on Monday, having received an injury last week. The Hon. James C. Cole sent his head sawyer, Hanson Oyler to help out the Eicholtz Brothers.
 Mr. Oyler had not been at work over 15 minutes when his foot slipped and he fell so that his back was to the circular saw but not squarely. The saw went into his back and cut a gash 24 inches long, 5 inches wide and over an inch deep. It was entirely a flesh wound, except some slight injury to the collar bone. No vital organ was touched. The physicians had to use 35 stitches to close the wound and unless there are complications Mr. Oyler is expected to recover.

RHEUMATISM
 This nerve-racking disease is caused from impure blood and uric acid poison. External applications sometimes give temporary relief but won't cure; the sure way to secure permanent results is to thoroughly eradicate from the blood all the impurities. Nothing on earth will drive out the poisons from your system, keep the bowels, kidneys and liver in good condition as SEVEN BARKS, the wonderful remedy that has proved its great merits the past 42 years.
SEVEN BARKS can be had of all druggists, at 50 cents per bottle. Give it a good trial and watch your rheumatism disappear.

ROYALTY AND CHRISTMAS.

The Emperor and Empress of Germany Bestow Rare Gifts.

In the German royal household each member has his or her own individual Christmas tree. The gift of the empress to her imperial spouse is usually some souvenir from a famous battle. Throughout the year she has her agents scouring the earth for rare trophies and spares no expense in procuring the one that strikes her fancy. This is placed at the foot of the emperor's tree. In this way and by other means he has gathered a fine museum of war relics. One Christmas the present he received was a pistol used by General Jackson at the battle of New Orleans.

The empress also makes presents to indigent clergymen. The package to each of these consists of an outfit of clothing, a Christmas card and a cake baked by her own hands. The Kaiser's gift to his wife is usually a fine jewel or some article made by his own hands.

In England the celebration of Christmas has lapsed after the time of Cromwell and the Puritans, who regarded it as too much of a pagan festival. Its revival came about through the writings of Charles Dickens and the royal observance of the day by the prince consort and Queen Victoria. After Prince Albert's death the queen modified her observance of the day for a few years.

Santa's Gifts.

The news that Santa had left two gifts inspired his broadest grins. But his grinning stopped. And he nearly dropped. When he learned the two were twins!

DAYS OF DIZZINESS.

Come to Hundreds of Gettysburg People.

There are days of dizziness; Spells of headache, languor, back-ache.

Sometimes rheumatic pains. Often urinary disorders. Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for kidney ills.

Endorsed in Gettysburg by grateful friends and neighbors.

Mrs. J. Menchey, 46 Breckenridge St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "Since I used and publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills some years ago I have had no further need of a kidney medicine. I never enjoyed very good health and when kidney complaint came on it caused me much distress. I had pains in my back and frequently had dizzy spells and chills. When a friend told me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a box at the People's Drug Store. This remedy acted promptly and before long I was in good health."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

H. V. CARBAUGH, of Berlin Junction lost two 800 pound hogs last week. It is said death was caused by over-eating of corn fodder.

ELECTION NOTICE.

Why Have "Nerves?"

This is the reason why women have "nerves." When thoughts begin to grow cloudy and uncertain, impulses lag and the warnings of pain and distress are sent like flying messages throughout limbs and frame, straightway, nine times in ten, a woman will lay the cause of the trouble to some defect at the point where she first felt it. Is it a headache, a backache, a sensation of irritability or twitching and uncontrollable nervousness, something must be wrong with the head or back, a woman naturally says but all the time the real trouble very often centers in the womanly organs. In nine cases out of ten the seat of the difficulty is here, and a woman should take rational treatment for its cure. The local disorder and inflammation of the delicate special organs of the sex should be treated steadily and systematically.

Dr. Pierce, during a long period of practice, found that a prescription made from medicinal extracts of native roots, without the use of alcohol, relieved over 90 per cent. of such cases. After using this remedy for many years in his private practice he put it up in form of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, that would make it easily procurable, and it can be had at any store where medicines are handled.

MRS. LILA B. HAWKINS, of Zeus, Va., writes: "I had been failing in health for two years—most of the time was not able to attend to my household duties. Female weakness was my trouble and I was getting very bad but, thanks to Doctor Pierce's medicines, I am well and strong again. I took only three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' and used the 'Lotion Tablets.' I have nothing but praise for Doctor Pierce's wonderful medicines."

L. H. MEALS PROF

A LEGEND OF THE MISTLETOE BOUGH

IT was an old legend now, a hundred years old at least. Generations had come and gone, and the weird of Barham Hall had never once given a sign of coming into fulfillment, so what need was there for fear? It was true that mistletoe was at last growing on the boughs of the old hawthorn in the Yote sward. But it was Christmas eve, and the bells of Barham church were ringing Christ mas chimes.

More than 100 years ago Roger Lyndale had done that which perhaps was not an honorable thing. Roger had wooed a farmer's daughter, but had not married her, and she had died at his gates. Across the grass levels, now covered with snow, the old farmhouse could still be seen, mute with its history.

Not a soul of Druscilla Ives' time was alive in the old homestead. Strausers were under its roof paying tribute to Barham Hall, as Druscilla's father had done.

But the descendants of Roger Lyndale were still at the hall, with a link between them and the story of the old Yote farm.

For, strangely enough, Druscilla had died on Christmas eve, and the legend of Barham Hall had come from her lips.

When mistletoe grows on the old Yote thorn
No child to a Lyndale will e'er be born.

So she had prophesied, and the prediction meant that when the white berry could be plucked from the old hawthorn standing alone on the green sweep of the Yote sward of Barham park the race of Lyndale would be come extinct.

And now at last mistletoe was growing on the old thorn!

Yet there were laughter and gaiety to the hall. The great open fireplace in the wainscot room was heaped up with glowing, crackling Yule logs, and all was a bright sparkle of merriment and good cheer.

Yet there was some little awe after all, although it had been cast off like a cloak thrown into a corner, for the legend at its worst was not without qualification. It had a second couplet, which ran:

But he that would nobly this curse undo
Must lowly maid wed and to her be true.

When that saving grace was attached to the legend and when the weird had been worn out by the passing of a century what was there to fear?

"Good gracious! What is that?" exclaimed Lady Lyndale suddenly. "Not the choir again surely! They've been and gone."

A voice was singing:

"When mistletoe grows on the old Yote thorn
No child to a Lyndale will e'er be born
But he that would nobly this curse undo
Must lowly maid wed and to her be true."

It was the weird, and it was being sung by a woman's voice to the refrain of "The Mistletoe Bough."

What could it mean?

"It must be somebody," said Roland Lyndale when it became certain that the voice had finished. "I'll see who it is."

With the words he crossed the room, drew aside the curtains of one of the windows and looked out upon the snow.

"It's strange," murmured Roland turning to his father, who still sat beside the hearth. "There's no one here sir."

"No," replied Sir Geoffrey; "I did not expect there would be. It was some impertinent person from the village, that is evident."

"Leo and Dorothy should be almost here now," said Lady Lyndale presently. "I wonder whether it is the snow that's made them late."

The butler appeared and handed Lady Lyndale a telegram.

"Is it bad news, Geoffrey?" asked Lady Lyndale.

"Yes, Millicent," he replied in a dry tone. "Leo has been taken ill with pneumonia, a fearful thing at any time, and he's not strong. You can see," he added, handing the message to his wife. "Dorothy says she'll win at once if it becomes critical."

The children still laughed and played, but the elders became grave.

"Poor old Lionel! I hope he will pull through it," Lyndale murmured in an uneasy voice.

Not many Lyndales were left. The stricken Lionel was Sir Geoffrey's only brother, and Roland was his only son.

Roland Lyndale had parted from his airy spirits. Ever since the incident of the voice he had been in a changed, subdued mood.

And when dinner was over he found an opportunity to steal out into the snowy night.

There were footprints there. On the shrubs had prevented his seeing the strange visitor when he opened the window.

Which way had the singer gone? For some moments Roland stood gazing from spot to spot.

Over the face of the moon the snow clouds had now flitted, but Roland could see the old hawthorn standing alone on the white expanse of the Yote sward.

Fancy had not deceived him. Somebody was under the tree, and the somebody was a woman!

A strange trembling came to Roland as he stooped over the dark, frozen, and almost sinking form leaning against the trunk.

Was she dead?

Just then a kindly break in the clouds let through a gleam of moonlight, and Roland laid his hand gently on the woman's shoulder.

Then she moved, rose to her feet and turned up to him vague eyes and a face so beautiful that he started. And the start set his strange trembling going afresh. But this time there was pity in the tremor, for he saw that the beautiful face was as white as death, sad, weary worn and so fragile that his instinctive thought of her was as of a white fly cast out in the snow.

"My dear young lady," Roland asked, wondering, "whatever brings you here like this? For you are off the road, and I see you are a stranger."

"My name," she answered faintly, "is Phyllis Egerton. My mother was the great-great-granddaughter of Druscilla Ives."

For a moment Roland was dumb.

"Druscilla Ives?" he said presently.

"Yes," she replied again. "We have always kept the legend of her fate and her prophecy against Barham Hall in our family. And when I was quite a little thing I promised myself that some day, one Christmas eve, I would come and see Yote farm, where she lived, and the tree and perhaps sing the prophecy outside the hall where she should have lived."

Roland felt strangely uncomfortable and yet gently pitiful. It was curious that after the long passing of a century he should be the first to come into contact with a descendant of the fateful Ives.

"But why?" he asked again, impressed by the hand of fate in it all.

"I don't know," she returned weakly, her head leaning against the trunk of the tree, "unless it was because I felt I must. Druscilla died on Christmas eve. I wondered where she might have been buried under the snow as I passed the church. I looked at the farm first. Then I went up to the house and sang, and then I came here. But I did not think I should see the mistletoe."

"But, my dear young lady, what will you do?" Roland asked her, pained by her helplessness and by the mystery.

"And, oh," she went on brokenly, "when I came here I almost wished I could die too! I am the last of the race from Amos Ives, with nothing left to live for—nothing! My father I lost eighteen months ago, and my mother died in June. So I've nothing. Six months I've struggled to live."

As she spoke she slipped from the trunk of the thorn and would have fallen backward in the snow, but with a quick step Roland caught and supported her with his arm round her waist.

As she lay against him rather than stood, with her face fallen on his shoulder, Roland felt her hands. They were icy cold.

"Poor girl," he said, feeling her misery in himself, "you must not stay here! I must take you to the hall."

Then quickly he lifted her in his arms and carried her into the hall, the first of the race of Ives, man or woman, to pass its threshold for a hundred years.

Sir Geoffrey was sitting in the wainscot room alone when Roland entered

"FATHER, THE SINGER," ROLAND SAID,

with his burden, for the ladies and the children had gone to the nursery, and he looked up blankly.

"Father, the singer," Roland said gravely, "the last of the race of Druscilla Ives. I found her under the tree, a wanderer and friendless. You yourself can see how she is."

"Fetch your mother, and I'll ring for Mrs. Cox and Parkins," said Sir Geoffrey huskily.

Phyllis Egerton was carried to the bedroom in which a hundred years ago Roger Lyndale had slept, and a kindly Christmas was made for her, but four days passed before she could leave the chamber.

On New Year's day wondering eyes watched Phyllis and Roland going up through the village to old Barham church.

Phyllis and Roland went to a weather-crumbled gravestone which, tradition said, marked the grave in which Druscilla Ives had been buried, and, with hands clasped across the now dead grass, they kissed.

"A happy New Year, my lady. A happy New Year, sir," the village folks greeted as Phyllis and Roland returned to the hall.

It was the happiest year that Roland had known, and as he and Phyllis passed up the drive they looked and smiled at the thorn and the mistletoe bough.

Why Have "Nerves"?

This is the reason why women have "nerves." When thoughts begin to grow cloudy and uncertain, impulses lag and the warnings of pain and distress are sent like flying messages throughout limbs and frame, straightway, nine times in ten, a woman will lay the cause of the trouble to some defect at the point where she first felt it. Is it a headache, a backache, a sensation of irritability or twitching and uncontrollable nervousness, something must be wrong with the head or back, a woman naturally says, but all the time the real trouble very often centers in the womanly organs. In nine cases out of ten the seat of the difficulty is here, and a woman should take rational treatment for its cure. The local disorder and inflammation of the delicate special organs of the sex should be treated steadily and systematically.

Dr. Pierce, during a long period of practice, found that a prescription made from medicinal extracts of native roots, without the use of alcohol, relieved over 90 per cent. of such cases. After using this remedy for many years in his private practice he put it up in form of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, that would make it easily procurable, and it can be had at any store where medicines are handled.

Mrs. LILA R. HAWKINS, of Zeus, Va., writes: "I had been failing in health for two years—most of the time was not able to attend to my household duties. Female weakness was my trouble and I was getting very bad but, thanks to Doctor Pierce's medicines, I am well and strong again. I took only three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and used the 'Lotion Tablets.' I have nothing but praise for Doctor Pierce's wonderful medicines."

A LEGEND OF THE MISTLETOE BOUGH

IT was an old legend now, a hundred years old at least. Generations had come and gone, and the weird of Barham Hall had never once given a sign of coming into fulfillment, so what need was there for fear? It was true that mistletoe was at last growing on the boughs of the old hawthorn in the Yote sward. But it was Christmas eve, and the bells of Barham church were ringing Christ was chimed.

More than 100 years ago Roger Lyndale had done that which perhaps was not an honorable thing. Roger had wooed a farmer's daughter, but had not married her, and she had died at his gates. Across the grass levels, now covered with snow, the old farmhouse could still be seen, mute with its history.

Not a soul of Druscilla Ives' time was alive in the old homestead. Strangers were under its roof paying tribute to Barham Hall, as Druscilla's father had done.

But the descendants of Roger Lyndale were still at the hall, with a link between them and the story of the old Yote farm.

For, strangely enough, Druscilla had died on Christmas eve, and the legend of Barham Hall had come from her lips:

When mistletoe grows on the old Yote thorn
No child to a Lyndale will e'er be born.

So she had prophesied, and the prediction meant that when the white berry could be plucked from the old hawthorn standing alone on the green sweep of the Yote sward of Barham park the race of Lyndale would be come extinct.

And now at last mistletoe was growing on the old thorn!

Yet there were laughter and gaiety in the hall. The great open fireplace in the wainscot room was heaped up with glowing, crackling Yule logs, and all was a bright sparkle of merriment and good cheer.

Yet there was some little awe after all, although it had been cast off like a cloak thrown into a corner, for the legend at its worst was not without qualification. It had a second couplet, which ran:

But he that would nobly this curse undo
Must lowly maid wed and to her be true.

When that saving grace was attached to the legend and when the weird had been worn out by the passing of a century what was there to fear?

"Good gracious! What is that?" exclaimed Lady Lyndale suddenly. "Not the choir again surely! They've been and gone."

A voice was singing:

"When mistletoe grows on the old Yote thorn
No child to a Lyndale will e'er be born.

But he that would nobly this curse undo
Must lowly maid wed and to her be true."

It was the weird, and it was being sung by a woman's voice to the refrain of "The Mistletoe Bough."

What could it mean?

"It must be somebody," said Roland Lyndale when it became certain that the voice had finished. "I'll see who it is."

With the words he crossed the room, drew aside the curtains of one of the windows and looked out upon the snow.

"It's strange," murmured Roland turning to his father, who still sat beside the hearth. "There's no one here sir."

"No," replied Sir Geoffrey: "I did not expect there would be. It was some impertinent person from the village, that is evident."

"Leo and Dorothy should be almost here now," said Lady Lyndale presently. "I wonder whether it is the snow that's made them late."

The butler appeared and handed Lady Lyndale a telegram.

"Is it bad news, Geoffrey?" asked Lady Lyndale.

"Yes, Millicent," he replied in a dry tone. "Leo has been taken ill with pneumonia, a fearful thing at any time, and he's not strong. You can see," he added, handing the message to his wife. "Dorothy says she'll win at once if it becomes critical."

The children still laughed and played, but the elders became grave.

"Poor old Lionel! I hope he will pull through it," Lyndale murmured in an uneasy voice.

Not many Lyndales were left. The stricken Lionel was Sir Geoffrey's only brother, and Roland was his only son.

Roland Lyndale had parted from his airy spirits. Ever since the incident of the voice he had been in a chancel subdued mood.

And when dinner was over he found an opportunity to steal out into the snowy night.

There were footprints there. Only the shrubs had prevented his seeing the strange visitor when he opened the window.

Which way had the singer gone? For some moments Roland stood gazing from spot to spot.

Over the face of the moon the snow clouds had now piled, but Roland could see the old hawthorn standing alone on the white expanse of the Yote sward.

Fancy had not deceived him. Some body was under the tree, and the some body was a woman!

A strange trembling came to Roland as he stooped over the dark, drooping, and almost sinking form leaning against the trunk.

Was she dead?

Just then a kindly break in the clouds let through a gleam of moonlight, and Roland laid his hand gently on the woman's shoulder.

Then she moved, rose to her feet and turned up to him vague eyes and a face so beautiful that he started. And the start set his strange trembling going afresh. But this time there was pity in the tremor, for he saw that the beautiful face was as white as death, sad, weary worn and so fragile that his instinctive thought of her was as of a white lily cast out in the snow.

"My dear young lady," Roland asked, wondering, "whatever brings you here like this? For you are off the road, and I see you are a stranger."

"My name," she answered faintly, "is Phyllis Egerton. My mother was the great-great-granddaughter of Druscilla Ives."

For a moment Roland was dumb.

"Druscilla Ives!" he said presently.

"Yes," she replied again. "We have always kept the legend of her fate and her prophecy against Barham Hall in our family. And when I was quite a little thing I promised myself that some day, one Christmas eve, I would come and see Yote farm, where she lived, and the tree and perhaps sing the prophecy outside the hall where she should have lived."

Roland felt strangely uncomfortable and yet gently pitiful. It was curious that after the long passing of a century he should be the first to come into contact with a descendant of the fateful Ives.

"But why?" he asked again, impressed by the hand of fate in it all.

"I don't know," she returned weakly, her head leaning against the trunk of the tree, "unless it was because I felt I must. Druscilla died on Christmas eve. I wondered where she might have been buried under the snow as I passed the church. I looked at the farm first. Then I went up to the house and sang, and then I came here. But I did not think I should see the mistletoe."

"But, my dear young lady, what will you do?" Roland asked her, pained by her helplessness and by the mystery. "And, oh," she went on brokenly, "when I came here I almost wished I could die too! I am the last of the race from Amos Ives, with nothing left to live for—nothing! My father I lost eighteen months ago, and my mother died in June. So I've nothing. Six months I've struggled to live."

As she spoke she shivered from the trunk of the thorn and would have fallen backward in the snow, but with a quick step Roland caught and supported her with his arm round her waist.

As she lay against him rather than stood, with her face fallen on his shoulder, Roland felt her hands. They were icy cold.

"Poor girl," he said, feeling her misery in himself, "you must not stay here! I must take you to the hall."

Then quickly he lifted her in his arms and carried her into the hall, the first of the race of Ives, man or woman, to pass its threshold for a hundred years.

Sir Geoffrey was sitting in the wainscot room alone when Roland entered.

"FATHER, THE SINGER," ROLAND SAID.

with his burden, for the ladies and the children had gone to the nursery, and he looked up blankly.

"Father, the singer," Roland said gravely, "the last of the race of Druscilla Ives. I found her under the tree, a wanderer and friendless. You yourself can see how she is."

"Fetch your mother, and I'll ring for Mrs. Cox and Parkins," said Sir Geoffrey huskily.

Phyllis Egerton was carried to the bedroom in which a hundred years ago Roger Lyndale had slept, and a kindly Christmas was made for her, but four days passed before she could leave the chamber.

On New Year's day wondering eyes watched Phyllis and Roland going up through the village to old Barham church.

Phyllis and Roland went to a weather-crumbled gravestone which, tradition said, marked the grave in which Druscilla Ives had been buried, and, with hands clasped across the now dead grass, they kissed.

"A happy New Year, my lady. A happy New Year, sir," the village folks greeted as Phyllis and Roland returned to the hall.

It was the happiest year that Roland had known, and as he and Phyllis passed up the drive they looked and smiled at the thorn and the mistletoe bough.
